About us

Secretary of tinka social organization mana mandlekar

Mana Mandlekar, known as the "iron girl" in her community, is the first graduate woman in Alampur. She is a 1st Dan belt gold medalist, representing India in International Karate tournaments.

In her journey of fighting for her right to education and giving a voice to young girls, she has transformed the lives of girls and youth by providing free karate training in rural Madhya Pradesh. As a co-founder of Tinka Samajik Sanstha, Mana wants to create a network of leaders who impart vital life skills and sports programs to empower girls and youth to transform their communities.

Ritesh Tiwari is a 4th Dan Belt international karate player and social worker from Timarni, Madhya Pradesh. He co-founded Tinka Samajik Sanstha to empower girls and rural youth through sports, enabling them to pursue higher education, be self-reliant and earn livelihoods. Ritesh's personal experiences encountering gender-based violence in his community motivated him to capacitate young girls. He received the TEACHERS INNOVATION AWARD 2019 and the INDIA BOOK OF RECORD for teaching 45267 students karate for free.

The Problem

The girl child is denied the right to education, and women are fighting against discrimination based on gender norms. Women in marginalized communities are fighting for their most basic rights – equal pay, equal opportunities, the right to freedom, the right to make decisions and the right to education. It is associated with early, forced, child marriage and domestic violence. Women are considered property owned by someone and are often sold in the name of marriage to girls in rural areas.

Our Vision -

Gender Equality and women empowerment through sports

Our mission -

Tinka's mission is empowerment of young and adolescent girls through the medium of sports. We promote gender equality in the rural areas through a systematic process of karate training and awareness about women and child rights which in turn, increases mental and physical agility of girls, increased confidence, articulation of their opinions and increases their assertiveness within the society to fight against discrimination and violence.

Our work -

We run Karate training centers free of charge for children and the youth at various villages in Madhya Pradesh. There are weekly sessions coupled with monthly sessions on gender discrimination , importance of education and violence against women etc.

The trainers are also assessed and trained to carry out these sessions in their respective centers. We also create and train first and second line leaders to spread the work of the organization.

Our work has spread to government and non government schools and colleges too.

Tinka promotes physical and mental training aimed at building confidence , increase in their willpower, changing the rural mindset against embedded prejudices and the will to fight them.

We also organize summer camps during the summer break , so that more and more children can get trained to be self reliant. Our work has also helped children participate in national and international level championships where some of them have won medals also.

Program Components

As per the program outline, it was planned to train 10 trainers who would implement the curriculum in 10 centers per year.

This project was implemented in Madhya Pradesh with adolescent girls and boys during one year 22000 children took training in 263 school collage , hostel , village centers. The core of the training was martial arts as well as gender sensitization sessions.

Community/ weekly sessions for every month -

During the year monthly sessions with the community and weekly sessions in the training centers with the students for various social topics were taken. Details of which are given below. This has enabled us at Tinka to spread awareness and bring in the desired results in the community. The kids are motivated and inspired to complete their education and women are finding their voices in their families and are learning to be self reliant.

October -

Mandideep Rangoli Competition -

Village Rampura is one of those places where women and girls were rarely seen outside their homes. Today, under Tinka's coaching and relentless commitment to teaching gender equality at their centers and community , the girls and boys together took part in the competition. This change in mindset of the male population at the village was heart-warming and a small victory for us at Tinka.

November

- Our Golden Boy Lokesh continues to represent India at world championships . This month he took part in Jakarta Karate series 2022 and though did not win a medal but defeated an Indonesian player by 8-0 and other players from different countries. Before this he was ranked world no. 378 and after this series he is now ranked world no. 11! It is a matter of great pride that Lokesh is the only boy from the small district of Harda who has achieved this feat and has represented the country all over the world.

Mana Mandlekar

From being the first college graduate girl of Alampur village in Madhya Pradesh to an international-level gold medalist in Karate to representing India in the Asian Championships, Mana has deservedly earned the title of “icon girl” in her community. Driven by her belief in Karate’s potential to transform vulnerable young lives, Mana provides free-of-cost Karate and self-defense training to girls in far-flung rural areas.

PROJECT - Gender equality through sports

Under this project, Mana’s organization - Tinka Samajik Sanstha - empowers young and adolescent girls as well as boys through the medium of sports. Tinka promotes gender equality in rural areas through a systematic process of increasing mental and physical agility of girls and a sustained effort to increase their confidence, articulation of opinions, decision making and assertiveness within the society.

Meet the Enablers of Social Justice

She is known as the "iron girl" in her community, and is the first graduate woman in Alampur town of Madhya Pradesh. She is a 1st Dan belt gold medalist, representing India in International Karate tournaments. In her journey of fighting for her right to education and giving voice to young girls, she has transformed the lives of numerous girls and youth by providing free karate training in rural Madhya Pradesh.

As a co-founder of Tinka Samajik Sanstha, Mana wants to create a network of leaders who impart vital life skills and sports programs to empower girls and the youth to transform their communities. Mana is one of the 20 change makers chosen as part of the Ankuran initiative of NRI, a leadership development & institutional building programme.

Beneficiary story:

Khushi Rajput (Bhopal, Madhya Pradesh)

Khushi Rajput's life has been full of challenges and obstacles that would make most people give up. After losing her mother in an accident in 2010, she and her brother were left to fend for themselves without any support. Things got even worse when her father became paralyzed and passed away in 2012. Khushi was forced to live with her uncle and aunt, who only cared about her for their financial gains. They put her in a hostel where she found her passion for sports and even won bronze medals in 3 SGFI tournaments. However, her aunt didn't want her to pursue her dreams and taunted her constantly. Even after leaving the hostel and living with her aunt, Khushi refused to give up on her education and joined college and martial arts classes. But when her uncle beat her and threatened to burn her, she decided enough was enough and left to stay with a friend. Despite all these challenges, Khushi didn't give up on her dreams and found hope and support at Tinka Samajik Sansthan. She now teaches self-defense to 62 girls and 30 boys in her karate class and has even been selected for the prestigious Care Leavers Fellowship. Khushi is grateful to Ritesh Tiwari for and Mana didi for giving her the confidence to achieve her goals and for finding the family she needed after her parents passed away. Her story is a testament to the resilience of the human spirit and the power of hope and determination to overcome even the toughest challenges.

Nandani Chauhan (Rampur - Harda)

Nandani Chauhan's life took a dark turn when she was just eight years old. On her way home from school one day, she was kidnapped and forcibly made unconscious. This traumatic event left her feeling scared and powerless, and the community's belittling and taunting only added insult to injury.

But in 2018, hope arrived in the form of Tinka Samaj and their team of dedicated volunteers. They began organizing self defense and gender equality workshops in Nandani's village, and the results were nothing short of remarkable. Today, Nandani is a 15 year old fearless and confident Karate trainer who has trained over 60 people (20 girls, 18 women and 31 boys) in her village alone. Her message to her students - "Never give up, no matter what life throws your way "

It's a message that's resonated with countless girls and young women who have attended Tinka Samaj's training sessions. Thanks to their efforts, these girls have developed crucial self defense skills, gained confidence, and discovered their own abilities to stand up against gender inequality, violence, and harassment. Nandani's story is just one of many inspiring tales of resilience and empowerment that are unfolding every day.

Radhika Gaur (Rahatgaon, Timarni harda)

"Before Radhika joined the karate class in her school, there was a strict curfew time which she had to follow at home. She was allowed to step out of her house only to attend school. After learning karate, there has been a change in her family's behavior. Since She started taking classes a year and a half ago, her family has come to trust that she is capable of taking care of herself. Now She does not have to ask for permission while going out, instead, she only informs. Her parents are proud of her. She feels so happy."

Radhika has trained over 300 students in the government schools of Rahatgaon, and there are currently 37 students training under her guidance. She is a National and State level Gold medalist and School Games Federation of India Participant.

Mahesh kajle (Timarni, Harda)

“Since childhood, Mahesh has seen some people in his community are innocent and more susceptible to deception or manipulation. They do not know how the world outside of the tribe works. Time and again, they are cheated, exploited, suppressed under debt, and become bonded laborers. Many people do not ever return to the village. He knows the government is working for the salvation and development of our tribe, but there is hardly any change at the ground level. He wants to study and help make his people self-sufficient so that none of my brothers and sisters are exploited again”.

Mahesh is pursuing a Bachelor of Arts degree from Timarni Government College. His parents work as farm laborers and often migrate in search of work. He is currently training a cadre of 30 tribal children in Mahagaon and dreams of working for the development and rights of tribal communities.

Some positive changes that have come under the Ankuran program -

Our new coaches have definitely had the opportunity to work and learn on the field. Many trainers were selected by us for the ankuran program who had no interest in doing any work other than training others for karate in the team. Looking at their motivation and hunger to learn, they were selected and given an opportunity for social work. This has resulted in the coaches being open to learning new social skills and work on social issues with karate as a medium.

- Very good relations were established between the trainers and the stakeholders at both the village/city locations. In particular, the karate instructor and karate team at every place should be connected with the police department
- Instructor Nandani Chauhan says that when women are called in Sirali karate class, she also comes and listens to the session carefully, when women come to learn, their husbands are worried that you sit in karate class all day, children plays like which men don't like, but for Nandni it is the best that women are fighting for their rights, taking karate dress, asking to play tournament, coming to class herself, doing well for herself. Practicing, coming out as a leader has been a big challenge for Nandni.
- Three months of self-defense training was given by Tinka Social Organization and Karate coach Anish Kahar, in which the girls were empowered mentally and physically. Those girls raised their voice against the molestation happening with them in the school and also fought for their rights. The parents of the children also came to the school to support the children. He spoke to the teachers there, the teacher who was suppressing the voices of the children, she also apologized to the children and an application was given by the school to the police department.
- The trainers also told that when the de-addiction session was taken with the women on the helpline number, the women openly told their household issues, like if men are abusing after getting intoxicated, then they are not able to refuse the son, because sons it is said that you are also drinking, so that the coming generation also does the same, well here the women of the communities took the helpline numbers by writing them. Also, this session was very good because women were taking more interest in the session due to the participation of women.

Story of struggle -

Payal Umaria is a 17-year-old class 12th student and a karate instructor of Tinka Social Organization. A student of class 11th of her school was not coming to school for a long time, so she tried to know the reason behind it, then she came to know that her family has fixed her marriage on the advice of a pundit. While she is only 16 years old and her family members want to marry her because the pundit says that if they get a girl married, the stalled work of the family will be done easily. Payal also talked to her principal about this matter but he also did not take any action and said that he will not interfere in any kind of personal matter. Payal asked the principal if she could tell about this in Tinka social organization, then the principal tried to threaten him but Payal did not lose courage and informed about it in the organization. As soon as the organization received the information, they conveyed the news to Women Child Development, Police and Collectorate Office. After some time, the administration reached the village Barangay and the marriage was investigated but the villagers misled them and that girl was married under the guise of Ganga Pujan. Due to our intervention, the girl child did not stop coming to school.
